Choosing the right party entertainment for your party

Birthday parties are a great opportunity given to us to celebrate life. The success of a party, no matter what the occasion, depends on the planning and making the right decisions.

There's a wide variety of party entertainers who can come to your home; everything from clowns, and costumed characters, to face painters and airbrush artists. Party activities run the gamut from sand art to spa treatments and if you're going all out you may even include a 'trackless train,' pony rides or a petting zoo! Many party planners offer most of these services. The challenge becomes how to choose qualified entertainment that is right for you. For starters, if your child is old enough, include him/her in the decision. Some very young children may be terrified when surprised by a clown or costumed character, while an older child might get embarrassed by their presence at their party.

Word of mouth is the best way to find a good quality act. Ask friends about their experiences with performers. Look in the party section of local parenting magazines or check the Internet for face painters, airbrush artists, magicians and other forms of entertainment. A children's librarian can be a good reference as they frequently hire family acts. Finally, a word of advice. Do not pre-pay in full unless it is your choice to do so, nor send a deposit for more than 50% of the quote. Look for companies with friendly service and willingness to help you make the decisions that are right for you. Don't base your final decision solely on the fee, as the highest is not always the best and the lowest might end up costing you more than you bargained for.
